Mary's Song

He has brought down rulers from their thrones
but has lifted up the humble.
He has filled the hungry with good things
but has sent the rich away empty.

Often lost in the message of Christmas, with the tinsel and lights is the militant message at the heart of our faith. Mary's song expresses some of these thoughts. The story illustrates the underlying message. The angel did not appear to a king or ruler, his appearance was not to the rich or successful but to a common girl from a small town.

Mary's song is in line with prophecy of Daniel when he interpreted Nebuchadnezzar's dream. Here was the rock that would destroy all human empires, to cast down the mighty, to pull rulers from their throne.

The hymn writer puts it thus:

So be it, Lord! Thy throne shall never,
Like earth's proud empires, pass away;
Thy kingdom stands, and grows for ever,
Till all Thy creatures own Thy sway.

Mary then speaks of the hungry being filled and the rich sent empty away. Those with little in this world find fulfilment and hope, those rich in this world's goods find there is nothing here for them.

The picture by the artist Ben Wildflower, shows Mary trampling the serpent's head but in a militant pose that takes us away from the Christmas card Mary to a young woman whose militant voice is heard in her song.

What does it mean to us today when we think about the words of Mary's song, "He has brought down rulers from their thrones but has lifted up the humble?" Who are those brought down from their thrones? Who are the rich sent empty away? Are we on the side of the rulers and the rich or the humble and the poor?

Andrew

Hail to the Lord's Anointed, great David's greater Son!
Hail in the time appointed,
his reign on earth begun!
He comes to break oppression,
to set the captive free;
to take away transgression,
and rule in equity.

He comes with succour speedy
to those who suffer wrong;
to help the poor and needy,
and bid the weak be strong;
to give them songs for sighing,
their darkness turn to light,
whose souls, condemned and dying,
are precious in his sight.

To him shall prayer unceasing
and daily vows ascend;
his kingdom still increasing,
a kingdom without end.
The tide of time shall never
his covenant remove;
his name shall stand forever;
that name to us is love.
